The top and bottom perforations of his stamp gauge "13 1/2" for half the horizontal length of each stamp and "12 3/4" for the other half. The peculiarity results from extending of the length of the "short" lines of pins in a perforating "head" gauging 13 1/2 x 13 1/2. The added pins gauge about 12 3/4. The perforating head was used sideways across the sheets of stamps so that the (extended) "short" lines of pins affected the perforations at the top and bottom of the stamps. The same head was used also for some 5d, 2s and 3s printings.

The gum on the above stamp is the same as explained in the note below L3b - brownish and thick. The perforation is rather like that of L3b in that it results in oddly shaped perforation "teeth" at the corners of each stamp.

Only one copy of L5b (Z) is known to Campbell Paterson
